Excerpt: . . . through an appropriate ceremony in the church—but it is merely a ceremony; and you must also sign a paper, called a deed of humility. Accustomed, as I had been, from infancy, to a strict mode of speaking, I understood this word humility in its usual sense, as implying an internal conviction of our own nothingness and of the insignificance of all human powers, and, therefore, did not ask any further information respecting this deed, but at once showed myself disposed to do all that was required. The monk, rejoicing in his easy triumph, tapped me caressingly on the shoulder, saying, To-morrow you shall sign this deed, and you must immediately enter on the Holy Exercises. (A penance of fifteen days, during which, far removed from all accustomed occupations, the person gives himself up to meditation, passing from the reading of serious books to...
